“Come with me!”
chirped Lumi.

Nowa blinked—
and WHOOSH!

“Every kind heart leaves
a little magic behind,”
Lumi explained.

“What happened?”
asked Nowa gently.

“The river has lost
its song,” sighed
the fish.

“Kindness can fix things that magic cannot.”

So Nowa began
singing a cheerful
little tune.

Slowly, the fish
danced. The river
sparkled brighter
and brighter!

"You brought the song back,"
Lumi chirped proudly.

A young boy with dark, curly hair, wearing purple pajamas with a yellow star pattern, is kneeling in a magical forest at night. He is holding a glowing, multi-pointed star in his hands. Surrounding him are several forest animals: a deer, two rabbits, a raccoon, a squirrel, and a blue fish-like creature. A small yellow bird is flying in the air above the boy. The forest is filled with glowing purple flowers and a starry night sky. A speech bubble in the top left corner contains the text: "This star shines whenever you help someone," they said. Another speech bubble in the bottom right corner contains the text: Nowa held it carefully inside warm little hands.

"This star shines whenever you help someone," they said.

Nowa held it carefully inside warm little hands.

“Was it real?”
Nowa whispered.

“The best stories always are.”

Kindness
Makes Magic

✦ ✦ From that day on, Nowa tried to spread kindness everywhere. ✦ ✦

Whenever the stars shine
brightly at night,
Nowa remembers Nannie's
magical tales.

Because every story
carries a little light...

and every kind heart
carries a little magic.
